

TRACY WILSON, M.S., P.P.S.

Professional Learning Specialist

BIOGRAPHY

"I love working with adult learners. As a practicing school counselor, I had very limited resources and support, so I want to help others thrive in their work. I also have worked in different school systems and now understand the inequities that exist for students, staff and leaders. We need to look at our work through an equity lens and be willing to change our practice and advocate when we see it."

Tracy Wilson currently serves as high school lead counselor in Franklin, Tn. Prior to moving to Tennessee, she served as Director II, College and Career Readiness for Grossmont Union High School District in La Mesa, Ca. In this role, Tracy worked with school counselors, teachers, administrators and classified staff in all areas of college and career readiness, including CTE, AP, and dual enrollment. Prior to this role, Tracy was the Counseling Coordinator for the San Diego County Office of Education, where she supported school counselors in professional development and advocacy. She has also served as a high school assistant principal, grant coordinator and taught future school counselors at San Diego State University. Being able to take all that she has learned and apply it back to the school counselor role is something she does not take for granted and she is thrilled to be back on the front-line serving students, families and staff.
